FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE (June 7, 2013)

Citizens can now follow City of Murfreesboro on Twitter

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. – In its effort to better stay in touch with its citizens, the City of Murfreesboro has extended its social media presence by including Twitter to its growing number of ways to reach out to its customers, its public. Engaging our community is one of City Council's four major goals and this is another effort to provide information with our residents.

This tweeter feed, brought to you by the Communications Department, will include information the public needs to know including City employment opportunities, meeting notices, road construction projects and general news about the City. This information is also available on the City's other social media, including its website, City TV, Facebook and YouTube.

Citizens are utilizing a growing number of social media outlets to get information quickly. By making City information available through all of these different media, Murfreesboro is providing better and more timely access to important news about the City they call home.

A list of the entire City's social media can be obtained at www.murfreesborotn.gov/socialmedia .
